

Christopher Boyer
Executive Director
Bio-Link

Christopher has over 15 years experience in the biotech industry, during which he has acquired specialised knowledge about the commercialization of diagnostics and therapeutics.

Prior to joining Bio-Link, Christopher served as Business Development Manager at Cryptome Pharmaceuticals, a Melbourne-based, peptide therapeutics developer. Earlier he was Manager, Corporate and Strategic Development at NewBiotics, a San Diego drug developer where he led contract negotiations and contributed to major co-development deals for small molecule, cancer chemotherapeutics.

Christopher also consulted to San Diego's Halozyme Therapeutics, a developer of therapeutic enzymes, preparing project valuations to support a successful $9.2M financing. As a foundation to his career in biotechnology business development, Christopher draws upon valuable technical insights acquired during his extensive R&D experience in small molecule drug discovery and molecular neuroscience, attained at Novartis and the Howard Hughes Medical Institute, respectively. He earned a BS in Animal Physiology and Neuroscience from the University of California San Diego, and augmented his business skills with an MBA in Marketing from the University of San Diego.