

Dr Stella Clark

Stella Clark is CEO of the Bio21 Cluster, a health sciences cluster which facilitates collaboration between its 21 member organisations.

She had a distinguished biomedical research career following a PhD from the University of Melbourne.

Stella was Scientific Executive Officer at the Baker Institute and General Manager, School of Graduate Studies, University of Melbourne.

She has been President of the Australian Society for Medical Research, and of the Australasian Research Management Society.

Stella is currently a Director & Member of Council for Leadership Victoria and Chairs their SkillsBank advisory team.

She is also Director and Honorary Secretary of the BioMelbourne Network.