

Susan Alder MBBS PhD

Susan graduated in medicine (University of Sydney) and also has a PhD in medicine (haematology) from the Flinders University of South Australia.

This was followed by post doctoral fellowships at the Ontario Cancer Institute (University of Toronto) and the NSW Cancer Council.

In 1986 Susan joined the pharmaceutical industry first at Glaxo Australia as Associate Medical Director and then Director of Clinical Research and then at Bayer and Abbott Australia as Medical Director.

In 1996 Susan joined the Therapeutic Goods Administration as the Director Drug Safety and Evaluation Branch (prescription medicines) and then Principal Medical Advisor. From 2002 to 2005 Susan worked as a consultant and from 2005 was the Director of Regulatory and Clinical Affairs at Becton Dickinson where she was responsible for re-registering all BD medical devices under the new Medical Device legislation.

Susan has now returned to working as a consultant and works with companies in areas of registration and training.
