

Tom Beer, D.Sc., Ph.D.

Tom Beer, D.Sc., Ph.D. leads the Transport Biofuels Stream of the Energy Transformed Flagship of CSIRO.

He is an international expert on environmental risk management, including greenhouse gas and air quality issues and particularly their application to transport and to health.

He was part of the team that won the CSIRO Chairman's medal and has been a lead author, and an expert panel member for the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC), which was awarded half of the 2007 Nobel Peace Prize.

He is presently collaborating with SARDI and Flinders University in the Algal Fuels Consortium.